

S I
D
E
B Y
S
I
D
E

You shoulda been there to see this conveniency ya know? It is really admirable to see every piece of this creature and colors. There was a brits tv show called "suits you sir" I just wanna say to third bird. Everything you have here suits you reeally well. I mean it.

BEN

RESEARCH AND INVESTIGATION CARRIES ON ARAŞTIRMALAR VE SORUŞTURMALAR DEVAM EDİYOR

This was really quick pose. Like other, I was ready to cross the street. Light was green and we including this dog, are ready. That pose was so appealing and dog was there to company us in the road way. My brain sent me a signal like you need to take some action. Actually there was twosignal. First signal was about crossing the street and other signal was capturing this moment. So capturinghis moment was more tempting because the scene was so natural.

This is a truly great spot for a vacation, and you can count on me for that. The sea is so smooth and gives off a strong vibe of relaxation. It's also possible to see some wildlife, like ducks and seagulls, so coexistence can easily be observed here. When you swim in the sea, it will show you its soft side, and you will feel so happy. As a plus, you have a perfect view of the island to watch and observe. It looks really different during the day. Experiencing this visuality is one of the things we don't stumble across everyday.

This is an edge of the world.
Here, you can chill out and observe the natural beauty.
Sea and sky both lie ahead.

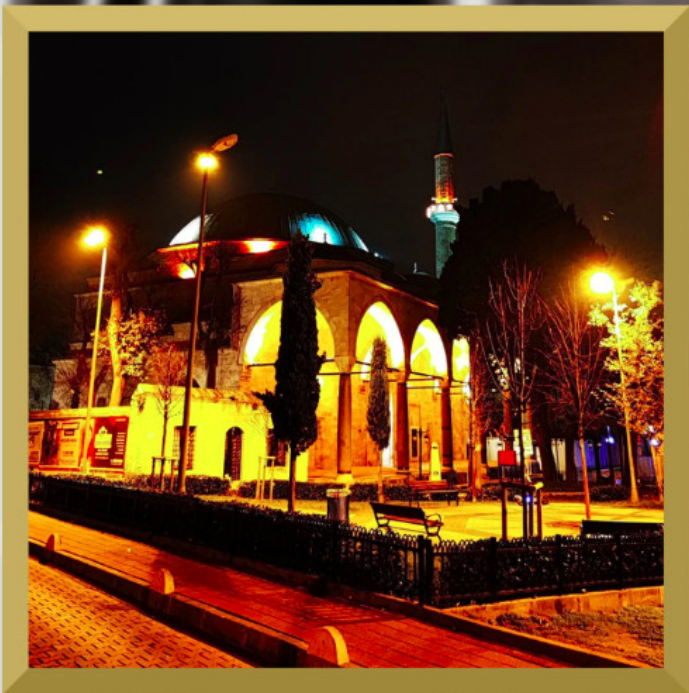

The sun is about to leave,
night almost rings the bell.
But this beauty remains;
it lingers on every day.

So tomorrow,
you will see the same purity.
Unfold what lies beneath,
and you will find it so appealing.

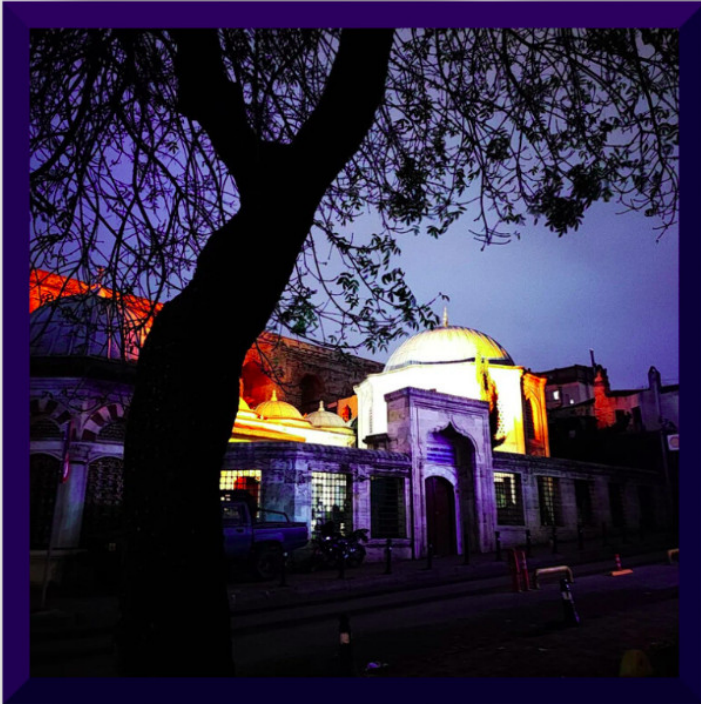

4.jpeg

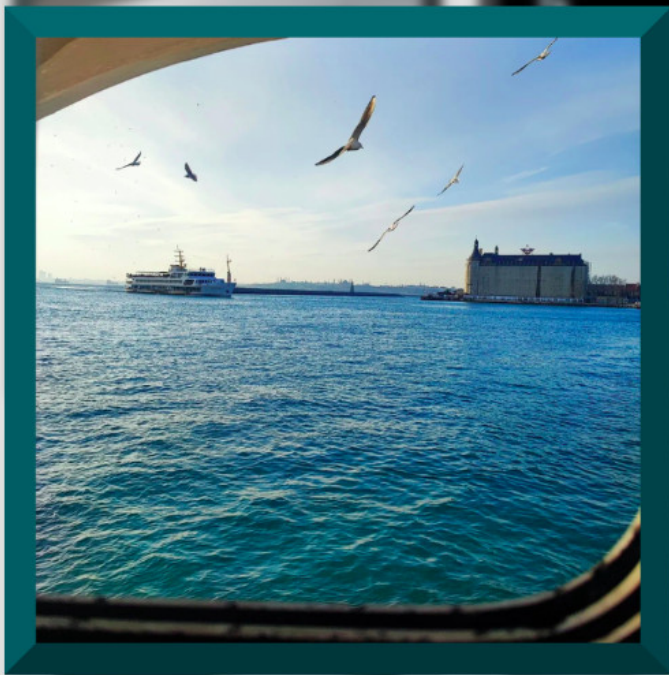

It's very easy to see how the color red gives the cat in the photo a different characteristic. Interpretation is, of course, subjective and varies from person to person. But you don't need night vision goggles to see the cat's frustration and anger. with the environment it's forced to live in.

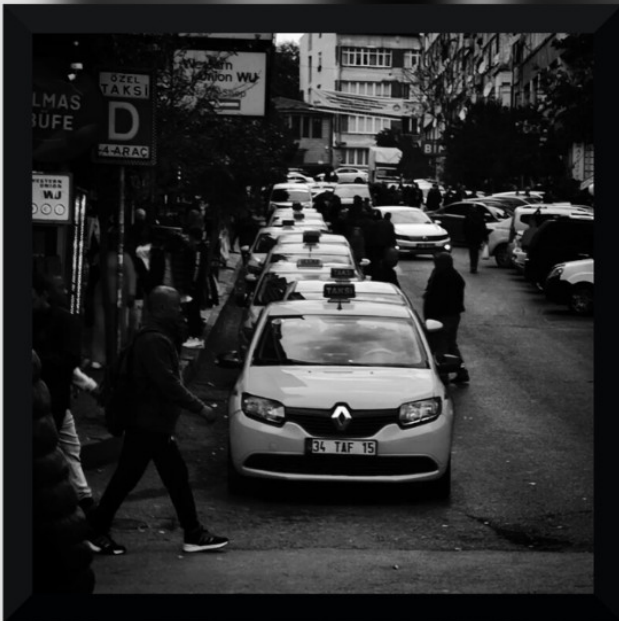

This mosque seems fascinating at night. Look at the architectural details and how the lights are shaped when they touch the ground. You should be there at this time of night. The scene is truly captivating.

I like to play with parameters like shutter speed, ISO, and white balance. This is what you get when you push the limits of these settings, and the result is honestly really nice. I manipulated the light conditions. The interpretation of the surface is intriguing.

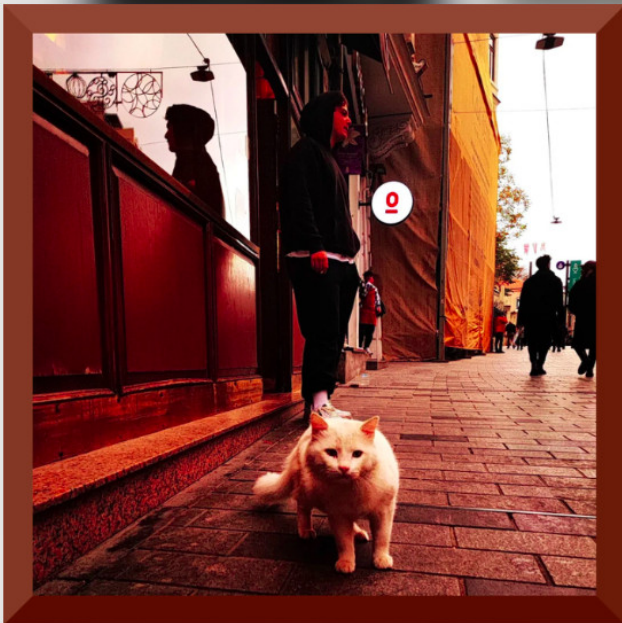

This is the view from a small window. It is a bit restricted, but you have what you need, quite frankly. Seagulls flow in the sky, gentle and slow. What a flawless moment to capture. And the sky seems so nice. This is one of the pure beauties the world gives us.

Another proof of our chaotic life, captured! The question that comes to my mind is: where did all the people go? Where did the cars go? What are we up to? What are we even doing? While we could add more questions, let's cut to the chase. We are just meaningless particles in this cheesy, overrated city life. That kinda hurts, innit?

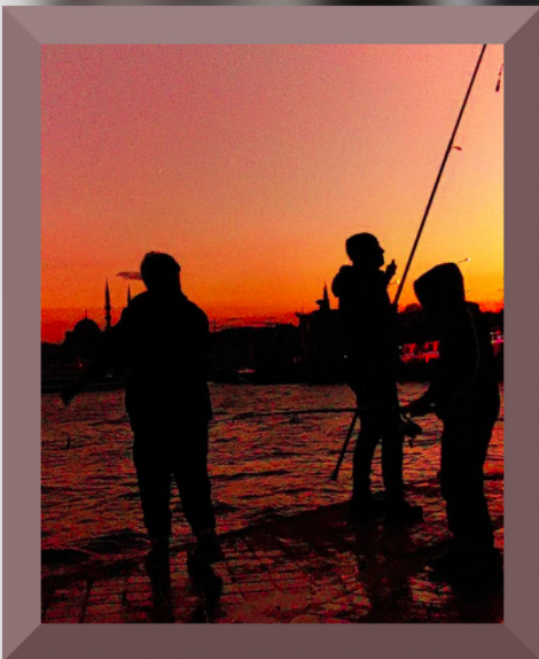

Clouds are so awesome and puffy,
Like pillows in diverse colors.
You could pass through them or sleep on them.
They allow you to blow off steam,
In the time you spend with them.

Autumn view.
The cat is not happy
on the solid ground.
That person is not happy too.

I cannot sit on the fence.
I am not happy to capture it,
but still do.
This is not controversial:
we need nature.

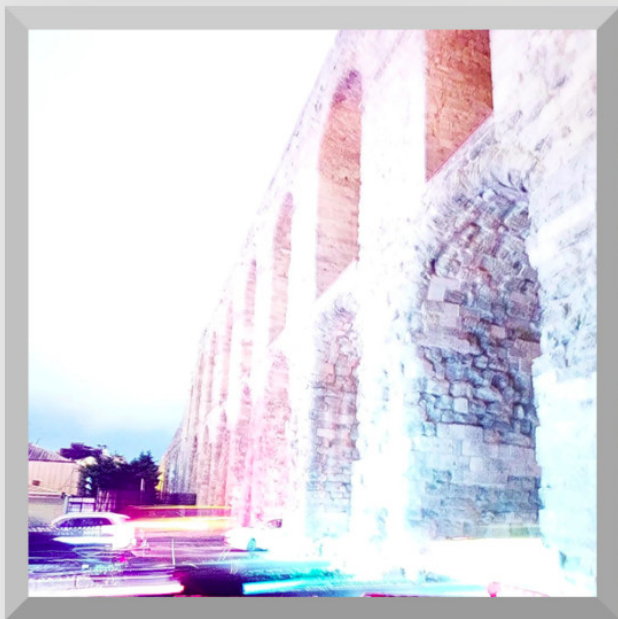

Face the music, fellas.

Few guys, really moody
in the dark.

Seems they are entertaining,
while catching fish.

That is another moment
from a life with a sightful view.

It is totally experimental and there is a big manipulation in view.

You see object manipulation, light manipulation.

But life has given you that also.

So manipulation is reality?

This is like an all-in-one photo. This is the moment you want to catch in your life. Street musician playing. People are talking. A ship comes to you. You will see the wave on the sea.

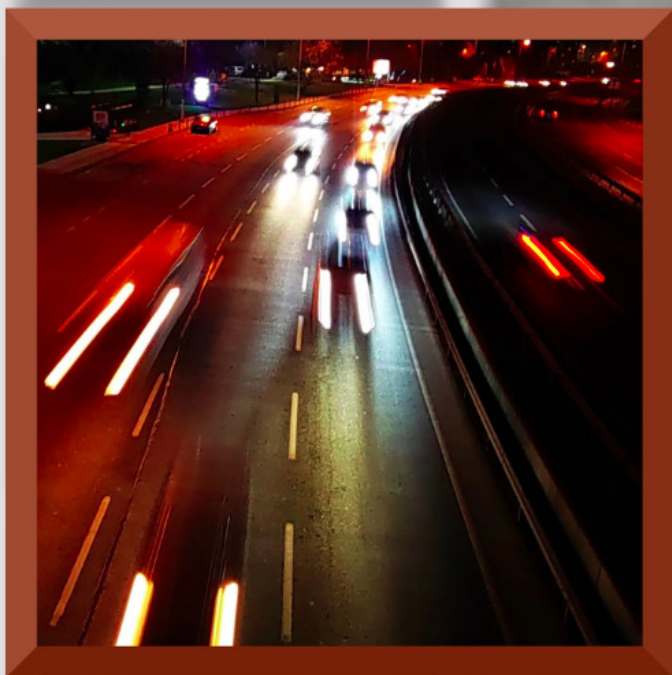

What else do you want to experience, really?

The cat is sleeping well.
Is the cat really sleeping, or just closing its eyes but still aware of what we're up to?

It's another secrecy, innit?

Life is weird, but c'est la vie.

The light condition of cars is seen differently in different time layers.

That proves what we see can be deceiving easily.

Almost darkness took over.
You have nowhere to run.

Windows, and things behind windows, watched over you.

Still, you can find your way to the light.

But be vigilant.
Some obstacles are there to slow you down.

No filter on that picture.

It's one of Istanbul's most famous spots— Istiklal Street, right by Taksim. The reflections of the lights are mesmerizing, don't you think? It was a rainy day, and people were moving steadily down the street.

The cat is so naive.
The cat is just checking what is going on on the window ledge.

The cat is so cute, just check its feet.

A one-eyed cat, but still has a strong connection to life.

Its other eye checks around, diligently and tentatively.

It is a one-eyed cat,
but still connected to life.

The ship didn't come yet.
Stairs wait for passengers.

I watched that amazing view in Istanbul.

The building must be really old.
The color of the sea is somewhat different.

That must be about the weather condition.

Quite frankly, it is hard to decipher the thing that got me in this photo.

It is really secrecy.

It seems surreal but the post is real no filter or no anything.

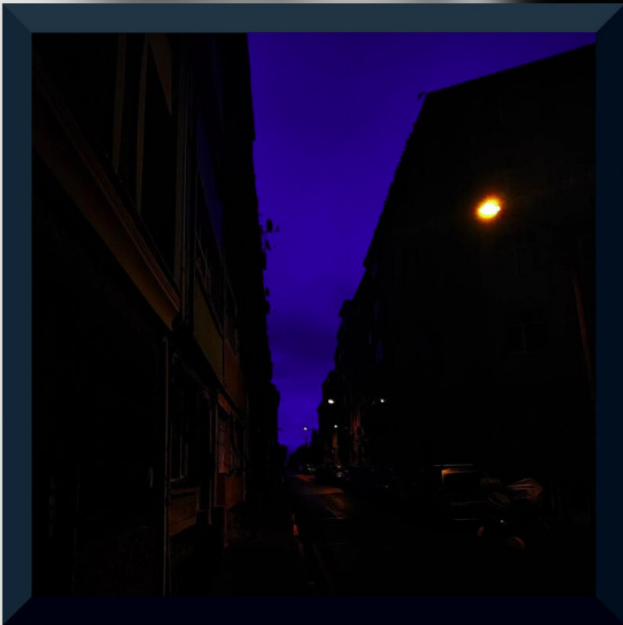

Different color composition provides different interpretation for objects.

Am I right?

I like street photography, quite frankly.

It needs some betterments. I really like lights, how they dance in a certain style.

A dark photo is good to see.
There are some secret treasures in life.

It doesn't show you many faces,
I admit.

But think: you march down
the street in that condition, and observe the dark sky.

Kinda intimidatin', innit?

I somewhat like blurry photos, especially in the night time.

Light manipulation occurred when a traffic jam happened in the street.

It was a sight to see.

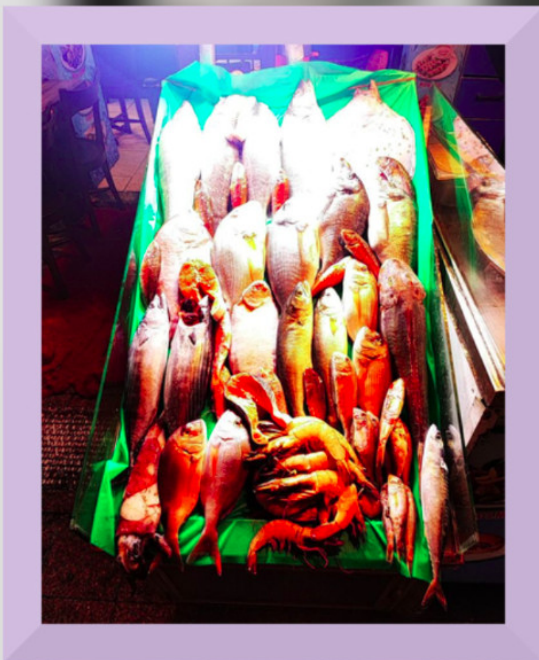

Lights are so awesome, right?
This is one of the poses that has different filters.

Well, succinctly:
different filters,
different faces.

But the face you can obtain in different circumstances.

27.jpeg

Fishes seem awesome on this something plate-esque.

It is aligned horizontally and vertically so well.

It is geometric.

It is appetizing.

It is everything you see.

This is like all in one photo. This is the moment you want to catch in your life. Street musician playing people are talking. Ship comes to you. You will see the wave on the sea. What else do you want to experience really?

This is not crack of dawn and I am on the street, chasing some moment to catch it. Aha this is the moment and doggy is sleepy and innocent.

It is obvious fact.

Long light trails and cars seems different with cars. It is like cars and lights interact with each other in a weird way.

Could you see that with your eyes?

This is nature that the cat wants. Still not enough it is all in its face. We the people are not exterminator to wipe nature out. We are here to stand for it. And we cannot be that greedy and make this kitty poor and lonely.

This tea is really symbolic thing you just encounter when the time indicates almost end of the night.

You hangout and converse little bit.

Literally you can fall in love with this cat. Check dark blue eyes. So admirable. Check the innocence of this existence. Still make me happy to see this innocence while innocence of humankind is fading.

Catasproptic city life. Actually when you examine closely. That cause some clusterfucks for all of us. People forgot living life while handling those clusterfucks. And we call his life. It is utter bullshit tbh.

This is really irony in one side the value of dolar, in the other side this poor guys carry really heavy thing. It is a bit controvertial that guy gives a damn about the value of dolar.

Question is can you measure with ones life with dolar value?

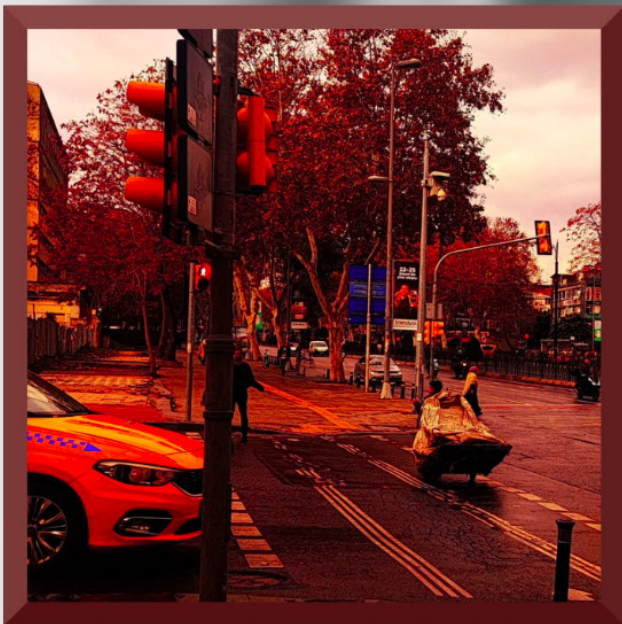

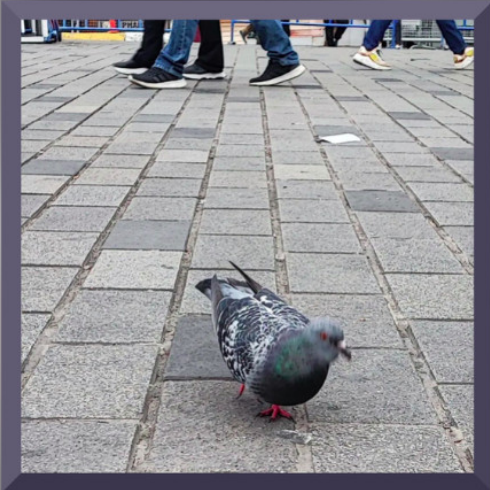

Photo with mostly yellow and orange colors. This is just ordinary city life. The thing is not ordinary for life the guy middle on the street that carries the bag. It is bigger then him. What a twisted reality for city life.

Check the feet and bird. You think this is really natural.

You have to pick your side and state your intension so clearly.

Life is painful. Is it painful for that feets or bird?

Totally tremendous view. It is dark photo. But other colors still takes their place. It is just another harmony you can easily miss with your eyes. But I am actually there to offer such magnificent view took place in life.

Hope to elevate myself to the level of being able to captivate in dark photo.

Dog look at the man with watchful eye and probably thinking you are the reason of my unhappiness in this unnatural shitty environment.

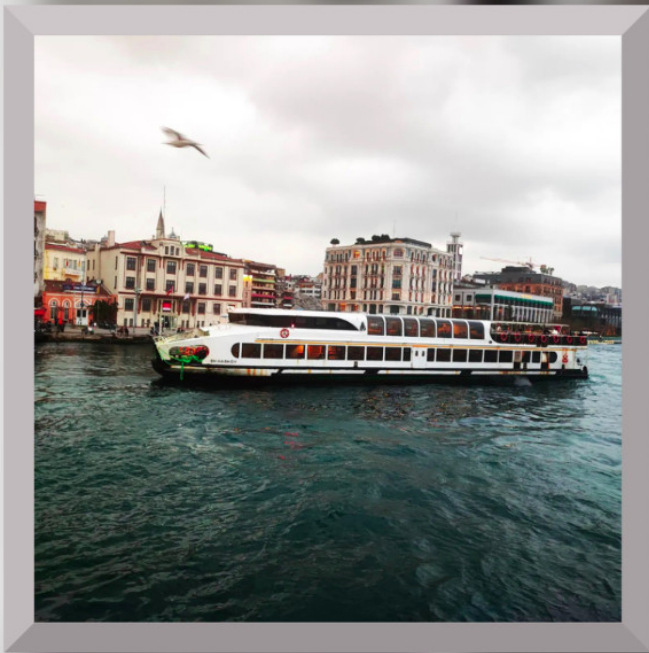

This is like from a movie when a bunch of fellows are drunk and are intoxicated moderately. This is dark interpretation of scene.

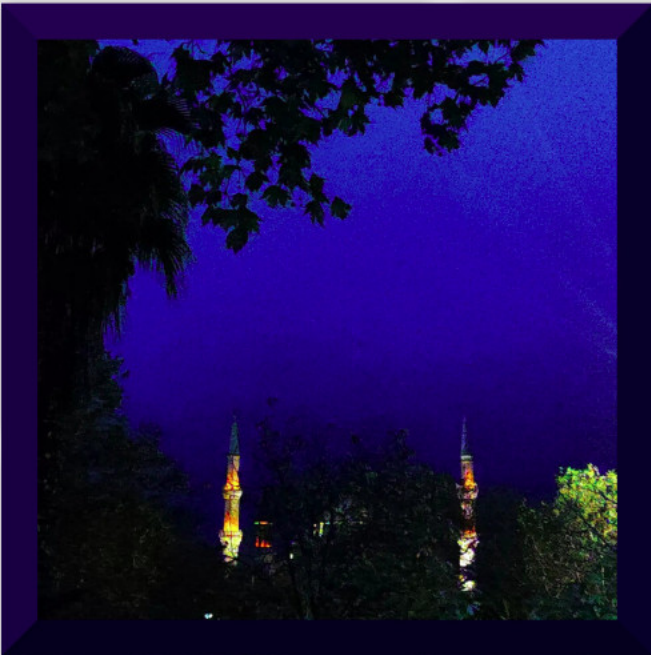

The bird sit on tree by the time i captured it. There is really big distance between me and bird. When i walk on the street. Something warned me and I just looked the sky. Pose of the bird is so tempting i cannot resist.

Playing with parameters like iso, shutter speed, white balance. That gave different result certainly. In tree, you can see some face resemblance that depends on how you interpret a of course. But this is widely open for interpretation.

Other view from Istanbul that is really nice. Witness how waves are shaped and how all things create good harmony and conveniency and decency.

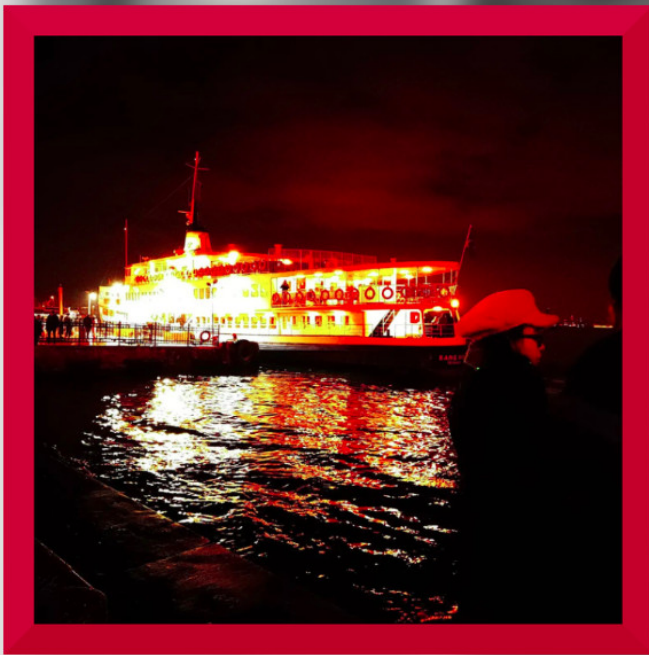

No filter in that picture.

It is somewhat noisy and blurry

I admit it. But magnificent view in the sky, leafs and mosque also seem good.

This happened at night and I captured it.

Reddish night with ferry
in the midst of night.
We see lots of lights that are arranged in a really good way.
Waves accompany lights to deliver lights in a nice way.

I am alone in this catastrophic place. I am hungry I am eating please keep your distance with me. It is enough pain to live in this hostile environment.

While ago, this street had some green things. People wiped out the real environment.
Share on them !!!